Agencies respond well in mock plane crash

Hancock County suffered a 'make believe' major plane disaster Thursday. The crash occurred at the Garfield Memorial pier at 2 p.m.

The plane was making a routine landing at Waveland Municipal Airport when all of a sudden there was an explosion, according to eye witnesses.

As emergency personnel were working on the plane crash another mock disaster occurred at U.S. 90 and Highway 603 when a tank truck collided with a pickup truck and gas started escaping.

Quick work by Civil Defense, Governmental Agencies, Volunteers and Medical Services personnel carried out a 'make believe' rescue during the exercise.

Retired Senior Volunteer personnel (RSVP) acted as victims of the 'mock' disaster.

At The Crash Scene

Hancock County was shocked Friday when at 2 p.m. a major airline plane crashed at the head of Waveland's Garfield Ladner Memorial pier in a 'make believe' emergency.

Waveland police were the first to arrive on the scene keeping sightseers away from the crash area.

Seconds later, Waveland's first fire unit arrived and began to extinguish the scattered flames and monitor the area for radiation.

Mobile Medic arrived on the scene at 2:05 p.m. and was let through by police to the victims after an all clear was given by fireman checking for radiation.

Waveland Police Chief Donald Dorn, Hancock County Sheriff Sylvan J. Ladner Jr., in addition to other police and deputies, arrived at 2:06 p.m. Dorn reported he was at the outskirts of the City checking ownership of an abandoned vehicle when the disaster came over his police car radio.

Regular police and firemen were aided by the arrival of auxiliary personnel who left their regular employment and headed for the simulated CRASH SCENE—Page 4

At The EOC

Thursday's 'nerve center' for the simulated aircraft crash emergency was located at Hancock County Civil Defense offices in Valena C. Jones Center on Old Spanish Trail in Bay St. Louis.

That Emergency Operations Center (EOC) housed key city and county emergency personnel involved in the disaster exercise.

When the radio dispatch announcing the air disaster came in at the EOC at 1:48 p.m. Thursday, the center was empty except for a few Civil Defense volunteers.

By 2 p.m., police and fire officials from Bay St. Louis and Waveland, mayors from both cities, and county lawmen were assembled in the EOC to begin rescue operations.

Shortly after the exercise started, the first call from the Waveland Fire Department came to the operations center requesting 'Jaws of Life' rescue instruments to free trapped passengers.

A call from the wreck scene came in to the EOC advising operations officer Robert Boudin a commercial airplane EOC—Page 4

At Hancock General

The Hancock General Hospital gave aid within approximately 25 minutes to 16 senior citizens acting as 'victims' in the mock airplane crash Thursday.

The exercise was designed to prepare officials for real emergencies.

Hancock General Hospital Administrator Harry Gilmore received a call from the hospital switchboard at 2 p.m. Thursday notifying him of a serious plane crash, killing and injuring 30 people, and that the victims would be brought to the hospital.

At this time as part of the mock demonstration, Gilmore passed out slips of paper notifying all hospital personnel that a part of the plane had hit the hospital causing transportation of 'victims' to hospital rooms to be impossible. And also that water was not available and no communication by telephone could be made.

At 2:14 p.m., Mobil Medic personnel brought in three unconscious survivors.

Patient A was suffering from a massive head injury and in shock. Patient B had lost his right arm and Patient C was suffering severe abdominal and internal injuries. Patient D

Bay Council accepts property assessments

By LESLIE WILLIAMS

Property owners in the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District (BSLMSSD) may present objections to 1978 estimated values placed on their land and buildings starting at 5 p.m. October 11.

Bay St. Louis Councilmen, at their Wednesday night meeting, accepted the tax rolls for 1978 from Bay St. Louis Tax Collector-Assessor Estelle Johnston, and approved October 11 as the first of ten days for objections against these accepted tax rolls to be heard.

These rolls include assessments placed for school taxes in Bay St. Louis, Waveland and the unincorporated area of the county which is included in the school district in addition to City of Bay St. Louis assessments.

As an example, suppose a Bay St. Louis property owner's land and buildings are assessed at $10,000. Take 30 percent of the total assessment, $3,000, and divide this figure by the current millage of 50.5.

This will produce $151.50 the property owner must pay in ad valorem taxes to the city, Estelle Johnston explained.

But, if the property owner has a homestead exemption his millage is reduced by 15 mills, producing in this example $106.50 in taxes to be paid, added Johnston.

Johnston said she uses Hancock County Tax Collector-Assessor Edward Murtagh's assessments to determine the total assessment of land and buildings in the BSLMSSD.

Barnes quits two posts

Norine Barnes of Bay St. Louis resigned, effective Friday, her posts as Hancock County Home Economist and local leader of the Hancock County Extension Service.

Ms. Barnes was forced to resign from the local leader's post as a result of a court order stemming from a racial suit which caused a similar resignation in Jackson County.

Today, Oct. 1, is the deadline for the Mississippi State Extension Service to replace in several areas, county leaders who are not simultaneously county agents.

NORINE BARNES

The deadline was imposed on the extension service by U. S. Northern District Judge William Keady. Assistant Extension Service Director R. Clay Simmons said the ruling was handed down in late August as part of Judge Keady's decision in a discrimination suit brought by longtime

Parents claim special ed issues remain unresolved in Bay schools

By RICH ADAMS

The Bay St. Louis parents of a nine-year-old learning disabled child said Friday a year-long effort to enroll their son in an appropriate special education class at North Bay Elementary is as yet still unsuccessful.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Boyd, 335 deMontluzin Avenue in Bay St. Louis, are involved in a personal crusade to enroll their nine-year-old son James in a special learning disability program at Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate Schools.

The learning disability program was to be instituted at Bay St. Louis schools this school year in compliance with Public Law 94-142, which allows schools to receive state funds for establishing learning disability classes.

The Boyds, assisted by the Children's Defense League in Jackson, took their case of getting special tutoring for their son before an impartial mediator, Dr. W. V. Plue, at a hearing in April of this year.

Dr. Plue and the State Department of Education ordered Bay St. Louis Schools to bring their educational standards in compliance with provisions of P.L. 94-142 prior to the start of the 1978 school year.

Mrs. Boyd received a letter on July 13, 1978, from Bay St. Louis School Superintendent J. D. McCullough stating that James was to be placed in a learning disability class at North Bay Elementary School at the start of the current school year.

Mrs. Boyd said Friday that her son has not been placed in a learning disability class yet, six weeks into the school year, and the deadline for the school district's compliance with the law is October 1.

She complained to the State Department of Education through the Children's Defense League on September 11 that her son was not yet in a proper class.

A response from the education department to Mrs. Boyd stated the Bay St. Louis School District has told the State Education Department, "James is now in a program for learning disability children."

Mrs. Boyd said James was not in a class at the time the letter was written by the district.

"The district is not doing justice to learning disability children if they won't even follow direct orders from the State Board of Education," said Mrs. Boyd.

"I think parents of learning disability children should be aware of P.L. 94-142 and know their rights. There are enough students with learning problems for two full-time classes in the Bay-Waveland elementary schools," she continued.

"At the present time there is only one part-time tutor for Bay-Waveland schools, and there are enough children needing the special help for two full-time tutors," Mrs. Boyd said.

"I have talked with the learning disability supervisor, the tutor, the speech therapist and the North Bay Elementary principal. They offered my son 3.5 hours of special tutoring each week," she added.

"After further talks, they offered him 1.5 hours of day tutoring, but that still isn't acceptable to me," she said.

"I received a letter from McCullough and the school system that my son would be put in a special class at the beginning of the school year, but he is still in a regular third-grade classroom. I can't believe the school district told the State Department of Education that he was in the special class," she added.

Mrs. Boyd said if her son is not in a learning disability class by Monday, October 2, she would take legal action against the Bay St. Louis School District.

Dr. Plue said during an interview in April that if the state finds non-compliance with P.L. 94-142 on the part of a school district, the state can cut off monies provided by P.L. 94-142. Mrs. Boyd said.

"Non-compliance is a federal offense," she added.

Amos says Hancock likely industry site

By LESLIE WILLIAMS

Governor Finch along with 30 industrial developers from Mississippi recently went to New York and met with 300 or 400 company executives—and one of those companies represented is a live prospect for locating here in Hancock County, said Mississippi Agricultural and Industrial Board Director Mike Amos.

"I would tell you who," said Amos at the County's MIDAS committee meeting Thursday night, "but I'd rather not reveal that information because I wouldn't want any adverse publicity to prevent the company from moving in."

He said there have been cases in the past when a company wanted to move in an area, but news leaked out that the company was coming, and area residents protested, and for this reason he would like to keep it confidential.

Mike Amos also awarded MIDAS Committee members Captain Max Berns, Fred Curet, Lt. Col. Randolph Bourgeois, Norton Hass Sr., Perry Gibson, John McKenna, Russell Elliot, Barbara Rappold, Vic Frankiewicz and George Guess at the meeting with certificates of appreciation from Governor Cliff Finch in recognition of their 'contributions' to economic progress and the creation of jobs in Hancock County.

Amos said the Hancock County MIDAS committee has been the eyes and ears for the Governor in determining the needs of Hancock County, since its establishment in Sept. 28, 1976.

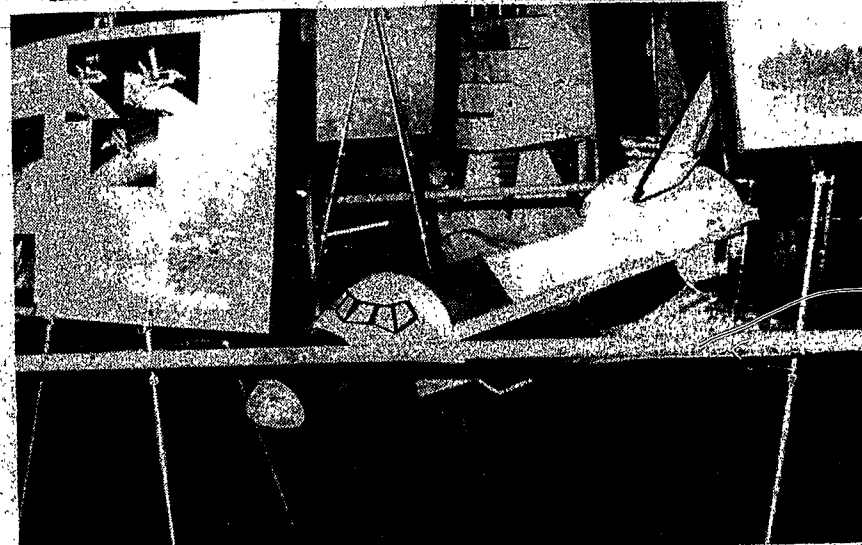

He said the MIDAS Committee's 'perseverance' has gotten many things accomplished for Hancock County residents.

The Hancock County MIDAS Committee is the best MIDAS Committee in the State for getting the door open at the Governor's office," emphasized Amos.

Amos invited all the MIDAS members present at the meeting to come to the Agricultural and Industrial Board's office in Jackson.

The meeting marked the second anniversary of the MIDAS committee's operation in Hancock County. The committee was set up by Governor Finch.

Committee members were chosen by MIDAS—Page 4

NSTL joins NASA's birthday celebration

By ELVA SMITH
(Special to the Echo)

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration was organized on October 1, 1958, and today celebrates its 20th birthday.

On Nov. 21, 1957, NSAS's predecessor, the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics (NACA), appointed a special committee on space technology. During the following January, President Eisenhower proposed that the Soviet Union and the U.S. agree that outer space should be used only for peaceful purposes, a timely suggestion in view of the fact that Russia, with its Sputnik satellite had taken the lead in the space effort.

As that month ended, Explorer 1, America's first satellite, weighing 30 pounds, was launched on Jan. 31, 1958, and led to the discovery of the Van Allen radiation belts, a zone of intense radiation surrounding the Earth.

Quickly, the Senate and House of Representatives established committees on space aeronautics. The president proposed establishment of a National Aeronautics and Space Agency, into which NACA would be absorbed, and Congress acted promptly.

On July 29, the president signed into law the National Aeronautics and Space Act of 1958. The Space Act created a new civilian agency, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Known as NASA, it began functioning on Oct. 1, 1958.

During the month of October, the National Space Technology Laboratories (NSTL), along with NASA Headquarters, other centers and numerous friends will be observing the 20th anniversary of NASA.

The early history of NASA consisted largely of consolidating a national program out of projects, facilities and personnel of other government agencies, the scientific community and the aerospace industries.

NASA acquired its initial staffing by wholesale transplant of established research and development teams throughout the government.

Most significant in the pace of NASA's transformation was President John F. Kennedy's call of May 25, 1961, for a national decision to land an American on the moon and return him safely to Earth within that decade.

During the first decade, NASA built four major installations from the ground up, and tripled the number of field installations in six years.

On Oct. 25, 1961, NASA announced that a test facility would be located here in Hancock County.

NSTL (then called Mississippi Test Facility) was designed and built for the purpose of testing large rocket engines and propulsion systems.

It was only 'make believe', but!

By ELLIS CUEVAS

An age old problem surfaced Thursday during the mock disaster emergency. Just how do you cross the Railroad tracks when a freight goes through Bay St. Louis and Waveland in an emergency.

Not one, but two Mobile Medic units were filled with "make believe" injured victims and were held up by a train in Bay St. Louis in transit to Hancock General.

True, some assistance was being given the injured by Mobile Medic technicians, but what if they were on the opposite side of the tracks from the injured.

We know there will be those who will say get rid of the trains. Of course they are the ones who have short memories as to just how important the railroad has been to Hancock County's growth.

How many have and are still raising their families through railroad jobs? Getting rid of the railroad is not the answer.

The answer is either an overpass or underpass in at least one place in Bay St. Louis and another in Waveland.

When you are dealing with seriously injured or ill people, minutes and even seconds could mean the difference between life or death. This time it was only "make believe," next time it may be the real thing.

All governmental agencies and organizations in Hancock County should give railroad underpass or overpass top priority among their goals.

Crash scene...

Emergency technicians were aided by firemen and law enforcement personnel not being used for traffic control.

Bay St. Louis fire unit arrived a few minutes after a fire truck from Waveland's Fire Station Two reported to the scene, at which time all fires had been extinguished.

"Make believe" victims were divided into four groups, critically injured, moderately injured, ambulatory and those not injured.

The first load of critically injured were on their way to Hancock General hospital at 2:14 as a second Mobile Medic unit arrived. The second medical unit left the scene at 2:19 p.m.

At 2:20 p.m. Mobile Medic's third unit arrived from Gulfport, and took the moderately injured to Hancock General leaving at 2:23 p.m.

Several passengers apparently not injured in the "make believe" crash were taken to the hospital in a bus.

There were some anxious moments when the second and third units of Mobile Medic were delayed several minutes in Bay St. Louis at the Railroad crossing because of a long freight train.

A Diamondhead Fire unit arrived backing up the Waveland and Bay St. Louis units. Firemen on the scene also reported the activation of all Hancock County Volunteer Companies who were at their stations on stand-by in case needed.

Waveland Police and Sheriff's Deputies cordoned off the area from spectators awaiting the arrival of Civil Aeronautics Investigators.

Editor's note: This story, like the exercise, is only 'make believe'.

EOC...

craft carrying 30 passengers and highly radioactive material was down near Ladder Pier in Waveland.

A radioactive detecting team was sent to the site to determine if the container protecting the radioactive materials had broken during the crash. The team reported there was no radiation in the area, but an evacuation of the area from Mollere Drive to Farve Street, and from the Beach Boulevard to Central Avenue, was recommended because of an explosion possibility.

School buses were sent to the area to transport 200 evacuees from the site, and the National Guard Armory on Longfellow Drive was opened to accommodate evacuation victims.

The Waveland Fire Department, after all casualties of the disaster were taken to Hancock General Hospital, reported to the EOC that the aircraft's fuel tank had exploded, injuring some of the rescue workers at the accident site and damaging emergency vehicles.

The Pass Christian and Diamondhead Fire Departments were called to assist in fire control procedures.

At 2:50 p.m. the exercise added a twist as a fuel truck and pick-up truck were reported to have collided, adding to the duties of the rescue units.

The simulated mishap occurred at an Esso service station on the corner of US-90 and Necaise Avenue, with gasoline leaking from the tanker onto the gas station grounds. Additional fire trucks and ambulances had to be dispatched to that make-believe accident scene from the EOC to assist in rescue attempts there.

"This was the most coordinated activity involving government agencies I have ever seen," said Col Dumestre, volunteer assistant operations officer for the Civil Defense Council.

This goes to show that with this type of cooperation we can prevent an actual emergency from becoming a catastrophe," he added.

"We had a few misunderstandings but overall everybody did an excellent job," said Hancock County Civil Defense Director Robert Boudin.

"We had 100 percent cooperation from government agencies, and we're on the right track to a successful operation. It is all a matter of learning to communicate with one another," he added.

Though the patients were nonchalant about their injuries, Doctors Helen McGee, J.D. Levens, Sidney Chevis, William E. Calvert and John D. Rutherford took the patients' make-believe injuries very seriously.

The nurses and other staff were also alert and serious, even a little bit nervous.

"If a legitimate patient would come in with an illness, the mock demonstration would stop cold," said Administrator Harry Gilmore.

At 2:25 p.m., the next wave of victims from the plane crash were brought in by Mobile Medic.

Five victims with moderate injuries were brought in at this time.

"Moderate injuries are patients in critical condition but the situation is not a life or death matter," said Emergency Medical Technician Brinenda Necaise.

Necaise said that in an emergency of this sort the first Mobile Medic team to arrive at a disaster acts as a Triage Team.

Triage teams, said Necaise, determine which victims should be transported first to a hospital.

The second group of victims reached the hospital a little late because a train was blocking Mobil Medic's passage.

During the disaster exercise, a person with a real heart condition called in and a room was made ready at the hospital, but that proved to be a false alarm during the first 20 minutes of the exercise.

However, preparations were made at Dr. Chevis's office in case the legitimate heart condition would show up.

Mobile Medic personnel brought in the remaining victims. They were treated and put in the hospital cafeteria with the other of the disaster victims.

Passage was blocked to other areas of the hospital.

"The hospital is already prepared for emergencies, but I think this exercise will help the hospital staff act mechanically during a disaster," said Administrator Gilmore.

Mona Santiago, hospital controller and assistant administrator, said she was extremely pleased with the performance of the hospital staff Thursday during the exercise. Staff members were very efficient," she exclaimed.

Senior praises United Way

The Sea Coast Echo

Dear Mr. Editor,

I am writing this letter to reach out to the people in Bay St. Louis to give to United Way.

Please, no matter how small or large give.

I am a 74-year-old Senior Citizen. I belong to day care center here, and the United Way has helped us old folks to live and enjoy life.

All of us at day care went to New Orleans and had a wonderful day at Audubon Park. Saw all animals there. We all had a wonderful lunch. No cost to us.

We have a big new bus. We sang and had a wonderful day. It was wonderful to see how good the Staff took care of the blind and cripple.

They are wonderful workers. I also want to thank the mayor and council and all of the supervisors.

Without them we would sit at home waiting to die.

God bless all of them.

Board ok's 15 county roads for resurfacing

By LESLIE WILLIAMS

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors, at its Monday meeting, approved bids totaling $207,955 for resurfacing 15 county roads.

Pearl River Paving Co. has been awarded the road work, said Beat Five Supervisor James N. Travira.

In Beat Two only Old Anner Road at a cost of $42,580 will be re-surfaced, Supervisor Alton Kellar said.

Beat Three's Standard Sand Hill Cemetery Road at a cost of $22,620; Cuevas Road $10,640 and Dedeaux Road at $11,980 will be re-surfaced, according to Oscar Petterson, Beat Three supervisor.

Beat Four roads to be re-surfaced include Walton Road and Ladner Road at $6,800 each, and Catahoula Road at $22,240, reported Supervisor Sam

Perniciaro.

In Beat Five, Chapman Road at a cost of $10,700, and Avenue B at $16,200 will be re-surfaced. James Travira is the Supervisor of Beat Five.

Revenue Sharing Funds and/or Road and Bridge funds will be used to pay for the re-surfacing, according to the Board.

Also at the meeting Monday, Board members approved a resolution to send a letter to Senators James Eastland and John Stennis encouraging them to vote in favor of House Bill Number 1297.

The Bill will provide more than $4 million to Mississippi Welfare funds.

The House of Representatives has already passed the bill.

In addition to Old Anner Road, construction will begin sometime this week on a 110 foot bridge costing $12,500 near Dummy Line Road, across White Cypress Creek, said Beat Two Supervisor Alton Kellar.

Kellar said the bridge is being built to compensate for a former bridge in Beat Two that was destroyed by a flood.

He said the Gulf Coast Concrete Company will build the bridge.

Ingalls awarded $287.7 million contract

Ingalls Shipbuilding has received a $287,779,600 contract to design and construct the first of a new class of guided missile destroyers for the U.S. Navy.

Representative Trent Lott of Mississippi's Fifth Congressional District said the lead ship will be designated DDG-47 and armed with the highly sophisticated AEGIS-class fleet defense weapon system.

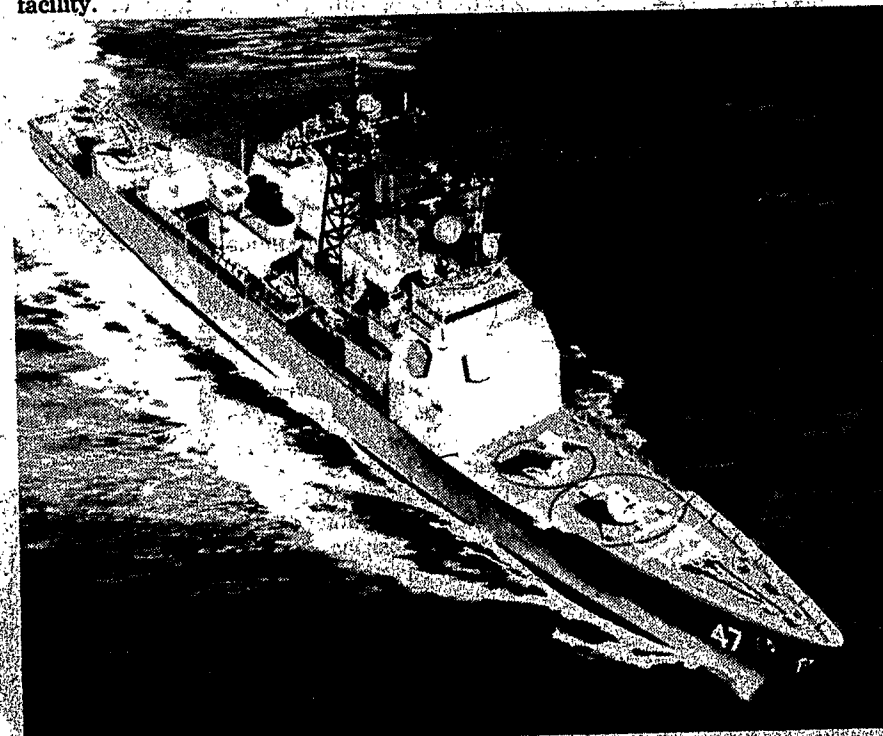

Seven additional DDG-47s are currently included in the Navy's five-year shipbuilding plan.

The DDG-47 is an adaptation of the DD-963 Spruance-class destroyers designed and being built for the Navy at Ingalls Shipbuilding's Pascagoula facility.

"I am certainly pleased that Ingalls has been awarded this contract," Lott said. "The company's experience with the DD-963 program should prove to be invaluable in this new program, and I am confident that vessels of exceptional quality will continue to be provided to the Navy by Ingalls."

The DDG-47, manned by 343 officers and enlisted personnel, will be 563 feet long and 55 feet wide.

Gas turbine engines will drive the ship at sustained speeds up to 30 knots. The ship's AEGIS weapon system is a high-firepower, computer-controlled, anti-air warfare system intended to be the Navy's key to meeting the Soviet air threat of the 1980's and beyond.

NAVY'S DDG-47—Ingalls Shipbuilding Division of Litton Industries at Pascagoula has been awarded a $287,779,600 contract for design and construction of the DDG-47, first ship in the U.S. Navy's new class of guided missile destroyers to be armed with the advanced Aegis fleet defense weapons system. Delivery is expected in late 1982 or early 1983. The contract is of a cost-plus-award-fee type, with some $100 million of design and construction to be subcontracted to firms throughout the U.S. (Photo courtesy of Ingalls)

Waveland resident denies La. charges

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Waveland resident Thomas Kidd was served a warrant by Hancock County Sheriff Sylvan J. Ladner's office Thursday, charging him with theft by fraud in Tangipahoa Parish, La.

The Louisiana attorney general's new Medicaid Fraud Control Unit filed a three-count bill of information in Tangipahoa Parish against a Hammond Dentist, Dr. Joseph Thomas DePaula, earlier this month and has now implicated Kidd in the case.

Kidd denies ever receiving any money whatsoever or any knowledge of Dr. DePaula defrauding an insurance company. Kidd alleges he merely furnished estimates on equipment as is normally done in the course of business.

Dr. DePaula has been charged with defrauding Hartford Insurance Company of $9,177 by filing a false claim in 1975 on goods, merchandise and equipment stolen from his office.

Kidd, at the time of the alleged fraud, was employed by the Healthco Dental Supply Company of New Orleans, La. He resigned from Healthco in 1977 to devote more time to business interests.

Nicholas M. Haas, local attorney, represents Kidd, who is under a $19,000 bond in the case. Kidd will refuse to waive extradition, at least until such time as Louisiana counsel can be employed to look into the matter and determine what steps should be taken next, according to Haas.

Smooth Rocks 20-0

Hawks are undisputed County champs

By ELLIS CUEVAS
Hancock North Central defeated the St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws 20-0 before a capacity crowd in the Rock Stadium Friday.

The victory by the Hawks makes it 16 in a row in regular season play, Stanislaus is now 3-1 for the season.

Coach Irvin Favre described the Hawk victory as 'super' on his way to the dressing room after the game.

"We had the motivation, I couldn't have asked for a better performance by our team. We played our best game of the season," added Coach Favre.

"St. Stanislaus has a fine football club, when you go into a game in mid-season and both teams are undefeated you can expect a good game. I am well pleased with my whole team," commented coach Favre.

Workhorse for the Hawks was Greg Ladner, moving through openings cleaned out by the HNC offensive linemen.

The Hawks first score came after a Rock punt was taken over on their own 36. It took the Hawks only seven plays to hit paydirt when quarterback Vincent Adams went in from the three. The point after was missed giving the Hawks a 6-0 lead with 8:31 remaining in the second quarter.

The key play on the Hawks first TD was a pass reception by David Clark from Adams good for 36 yards.

The Hawks turned a Rock miscue into a TD later in the second stanza when on a fourth down the Rock punter bobbled the ball and tried to run and was trapped on his own 20-yard line. In four plays Greg Ladner went in from the one for a score. On the point after the Hawks set up for a kick and pulled a fast one when Robert Devaughn passed to Ladner for two points. With 1:42 remaining in the first half the Hawks led 14-0.

In the first half of play the Rocks on their first possession moved from mid-field to the Hawk 23 and fumbled the Ball which was picked up by Adams and he moved it out to the 20. Stanislaus picked up two first downs in that drive and only one more in the second quarter.

The Hawks started a drive from their 47 when Kim Ladner recovered a Stanislaus fumble and moved to the Rocks nine where Scott Senner recovered a lose ball.

The Hawks had 6 first downs in the first half.

During the half ceremonies, the Hawk and Rock-A-Chaw bands entertained the fans in the stands.

The officials kept their yellow handkerchiefs in their pockets throughout the game as penalties were very few, and good sportsmanship prevailed the entire game.

The Hawks cashed in on a Rock fumble recoverd on their 7 when a handoff was dropped and recovered by the Hawk defense. The Hawks bobbled the ball on the first play and recovered on the eight and then Adams hit David Clark in the end zone with a pass for the final score of the game. The PAT was wide giving the Hawks a 20-0 lead with 6:16 left in the game.

After the kick-off the Rock offense started to move from their own 32 to the Hawk 44 in seven plays and were stopped on a fumble recovered by the Hawks.

The Hawks lead 12 to 4 in first downs and 154 to the Rocks' 53 yards rushing, 66-31 yards passing. Stanislaus led the game in punting average with 11 for 36 yards against the Hawks 4 for 24 yards average.

The Hawks had three fumbles losing one and the Rocks had three fumbles losing all three.

Coach Favre had high praise for his coaching staff as well as his squad saying, "My coaching staff prepared the Hawks to perfection for this game. Hancock North Central will celebrate Homecoming next Friday with a visit from Lumberton. St. Stanislaus will visit the Pearl River Conference leaders d'Iberville next Friday.

Pirates stop late Rebel drive, win homecoming clash 13-7

By RICH ADAMS

A fourth quarter drive that took Notre Dame to the Pirate 25 yard line with 2:25 left in the game was stopped when John Pat Swanier intercepted a Rebel pass to cap a 13-7 homecoming win for the Pass Christian Pirates.

"Notre Dame has a tough defense. I think only St. Stanislaus has scored big against them," Pirate head coach Bob Lumpkin said prior to Friday's game.

"We only got the ball eight times in the second half," said coach Lumpkin after the game.

"I'm proud of our defense for not quitting when Notre Dame kept the ball in the second half, but I'm disappointed we let them keep the ball so long," he continued. "Notre Dame did a real good job, and we got in a hole and couldn't get out. We have a lot of defensive work to do to eliminate our mistakes," Lumpkin added.

The Notre Dame defense was indeed tough, holding the Pirates to only 68 yards on the ground and six first downs.

The Pirates had good field position following an on side kick by the Rebels, but on the first play from the 36 yard line, Mackie Dedeaux fumbled the ball and Tommy Toups of Notre Dame came up with the loose ball.

The Rebels took the ball to the Pass Christian 16 yard line, but the Pirate defense got tough and sacked Rebel quarterback Greg Breal for 22 yards in two plays and took possession of the ball on downs.

On the first play from their own 3' yard line, Pirate quarterback Pat Barnes hit Robert Bailey on a sideline screen and Bailey raced 61 yards down the sidelines to score for the Pass squad.

Barnes' point after attempt was good, giving the Pirates an early 7-0 lead.

Friday's game was plagued with fumbles by both teams, as Notre Dame lost the ball late in the first quarter, recovered by Dedeaux on the Rebel 48 yard line.

Pass Christian moved the ball down to the Rebel 37 yard line, and Gene Lang, Pirate runningback, dropped the ball and Notre Dame recovered.

Notre Dame was pushed deep into their own territory, when Dedeaux again recovered a Rebel fumble to put the Pass squad first and goal on the Rebel nine yard line.

Three plays later Gene Lang carried the ball in from the two yard line, extending the Pirate lead to 13-0.

Barnes' point after was foiled on a high snap from center.

Notre Dame was posing another scoring threat in the final minutes of the first half, but Bailey picked off a Rebel pass to give Pass Christian the ball as the clock ran out.

Notre Dame opened the second half by taking the ball down to the Pirate 12 yard line, only to lose the ball on downs after a fourth and one attempt by Breal failed to gain the necessary yardage.

Lang bobbled the ball three plays later and Notre Dame took the ball on the Pass 39.

A Breal pass intended for Larry Cross was picked off by Virgil Swanier, giving the ball back to the Pirates and once again stopping a possible scoring drive by the Rebels in Pirate territory.

Notre Dame took possession of the ball on downs and in 12 plays moved 45 yards to score on a Neil Broussard drive from one yard out with 5:17 remaining in the game.

The point after was good, and Notre Dame was on the scoreboard, 13-7.

Following an on side kick attempt that went out of bounds, Pass Christian's Virgil Swanier passed for a 22 yard gain, but Bailey let the ball slip loose and Broussard recovered for the Rebels and ran the ball to the Pirate 30 yard line.

On a fourth and nine situation on the Pirate 33 yard line, Breal threw a sidelinier to Cross, which was intercepted by John Pat Swanier for the Pass Christian squad.

The fourth stanza ended with Pass in possession of the ball, winning the game 13-7.

Next week the Pirates travel to St. Martin to try to extend their record to 4-1 for the season, the only loss for the Pirates being a 21-0 rout by d'Iberville.

Gametime next Friday is 7:30 p.m.

Undeclared d'Iberville shuts out Bay High

By RICH ADAMS

The d'Iberville Warriors romped over the Bay High Tigers 40-0 to win their fifth consecutive season game by a shutout in as many outings.

Warrior quarterback Reggie Collier rushed for three scores and passed for two others in the shutout Friday night, making the d'Iberville squad the only undefeated team in the Pascagoula River Conference.

"d'Iberville has a super football team. Very solid, very big, and no weaknesses," Tiger head coach Bill Rhodes said.

"Collier, their quarterback, is a tremendous athlete. He does everything well," he continued.

"We played respectable ball, and we are proud because our players never quit against this mountain of a team," he added.

"d'Iberville is a very solid team, and I doubt if they will get beat this year. I don't think anybody will even score against them," he added.

"I'm sure we can do a good job from now on, now that we don't have to play these powerhouse teams," coach Rhodes said.

The Tigers had 43 yards on the ground against the tough Warrior defense, while d'Iberville ran for 208 yards.

Dion Keel scored for d'Iberville with 4:51 remaining in the first stanza from eight yards out. Donald Williams converted for the point after, making it 7-0.

Collier then took a 36 yard run in for the second score in the first quarter and Williams added the point after.

On the first play of the second quarter, Bobby Wheeler of d'Iberville picked off a Tiger pass and the Warriors drove to the Tiger three yard line. Collier took the ball in from the three for another score, with 11:10 left in the half.

A two-point conversion attempt failed.

Collier hit Weaver with a seven yard pass to paydirt on the last play of the first half, and Williams kicked the extra point.

The Warriors took a 34-0 lead into the lockerroom at halftime.

The third stanza was scoreless, and with 6:45 remaining in the final period, Collier intercepted a pass on the Tiger 28 and returned it for a touchdown.

The extra point attempt failed.

d'Iberville, 5-0 for the season, hosts St. Stanislaus next Friday while The Tigers, 1-4 for the season, hosts Long Beach.

Pass band names council

The Pass Christian Pirates Marching Band named newly elected officers to their band council.

The students elected to the offices are Dejon (Dee) Torgeson, president; Desiree Davion, vice-president; Clark

Schull and Vernon Wimberly, coconductors.

These members will represent the band's ideas and views at the band auxiliary meetings and are entitled two votes on issues concerning the band.

PROUD TIGER-Chosen Tiger Pride Band Member of the Week is Nena Boyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Boyd of Bay St. Louis. Nena has been a member of Tiger Pride since 8th grade. A senior at Bay High, she is rifle captain of the band.

The Bay St. Louis Junior Varsity football team, coached by Cleveland Williams, defeated the d'Iberville JV squad 6-0 in overtime Thursday.

THE FIZZLE FAMILY

NSTL...

At that time, the building of NSTL was the largest construction project ever to take place in the state of Mississippi. All of the Apollo-Saturn V first and second stages used in America's lunar landing program were static fired and flight certified at NSTL.

By the end of the first decade of operation, the agency had undergone substantial change. Budgets had risen to nearly $6 billion a year and had dropped back to $4 billion.

In-house personnel had peaked in 1967, and projects had been begun and completed as the base of the Apollo program expanded research in aeronautics and space science; orbited communications, meteorological, and international satellites of many sorts; sent probes to Mars and Venus; and constructed a new family of launch vehicles.

And by the end of NASA's 10th year, the three Apollo 8 astronauts had orbited the moon and returned to Earth.

Apollo 11, launched on July 16, 1969, carried Astronauts Neil Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin, Jr. to a touchdown on the surface of the moon on July 20.

Less than seven hours after landing, Armstrong cautiously placed his foot on the moon as he stepped off the Apollo Lunar Module "Eagle", and said, "That's one small step for a man, one giant leap for mankind."

The astronauts returned with 44 pounds of lunar materials. Michael Collins was the third member of the Apollo 11 crew.

Project Mercury, initiated Oct. 5, 1958, just four days after NASA began operation, provided an opportunity to obtain medical observations on men in space.

The first American rocketed into space was Astronaut Alan B. Shepard, Jr., on May 5, 1961, and John H. Glenn, Jr., in his Mercury spacecraft circled the Earth three times on Feb. 20, 1962.

The Gemini Program confirmed that useful work could be accomplished in the space environment.

In achieving all of its major objectives, the Gemini project demonstrated that man can: Maneuver his craft in space; Leave his craft, survive and do useful work in space if he is properly clothed and equipped; Rendezvous and dock his craft with another vehicle in space; Function effectively during prolonged space flight; and control his spacecraft during its descent from orbit and land within a selected area.

From the first 15-minute, 22 second Mercury flight to the 84 day Skylab flight, man's capability to adapt and function effectively for extended periods in space has been proven.

Every day, all around the world, people are assisted by direct benefits from the National Space Program. Whatever a person's age may be, almost daily contact with some product or by-product which is the direct result of space research is experienced.

The end of one era marks the beginning of another.

The next decade will witness the emergence of a new form of cooperation between the users and producers of Landsat satellite information. With the aid of remote sensing platforms in space, in the years ahead, it can be determined how much food the Earth will produce while most of the potential is still on the ground—this will help to feed the world's hungry.

Using the information from the satellite pictures, man can make a better map, grow more wheat, drill for oil, plan for a park, rebuild a seashore or clean up a river. From Landsat, it is now possible to obtain valuable information from space on the Earth's store of resources.

Information from Landsat is used for many purposes, including flood assessment and crop and forest disease assessment.

In the 1980's a new era of transportation will commence, with the event of the Space Shuttle and Spacelab Programs. The Space Shuttle will inexpensively transport a variety of payloads to Earth orbit. It is designed to reduce the cost and increase the effectiveness of using space to better solve many of our problems here on Earth.

The Spacelab is an international laboratory, designed by 10 European countries that make up the European Space Agency.

The Space Shuttle's versatility and reusability will open the door to economical and routine operations in space.

The Shuttle flight system consists of an Orbiter, designed to operate multiple missions, an External Tank to supply propellants to the orbiter main engines, and two recoverable and reusable Solid Rocket Boosters.

Designed to replace the inventory of expendable launch vehicles, the Shuttle will retrieve payloads and return them to Earth for reuse; service and repair payloads in orbit.

NSTL has played a major role in NASA's program during the space agency's first 20 years. NASA modified the same test towers used for static firing the Saturn V boosters to accommodate the Space Shuttle Main Engines and the Space Shuttle Main Propulsion Test Article.

Research and development tests are conducted almost on a daily basis as NASA prepares for its first manned Space Shuttle flight in 1979.

During the 1970s, NSTL is becoming more involved in research in Earth resources and the application of space technology to solving the problems of man here on Earth.

In reality, the Space Act of 1958 that created the National Aeronautics and Space Administration charges the agency to report its findings, successes and failures, promptly and accurately. NASA has been an open agency from its very beginning.

On July 20, 1978, President Jimmy Carter said, "As time and technology take us ever more deeply into the space age, it will continue to be our policy to conduct operations in space as required for our national well being and to support the right of all nations to do likewise."

NASA, comprised of 23,000 men and women, is proud of its accomplishments over the past two decades—and most believe "the best is yet to come."

DANGER—Waveland Police and Fire Departments set up road blocks to prevent people from coming into an area which may be radioactive as part of an emergency operations drill Thursday. Mobile Medic also awaits a signal verifying whether or not the area is radioactive. (Staff photo—Ellis Cuevas)
